

Survey of Those Who are Questioning, Leaving, or Have Left an Orthodox Community
March, 2016

Introduction

Survey of Those Who are Questioning, Leaving, or Have Left an Orthodox Community

While there have been many studies done among the Orthodox, there is little research among those who had an Orthodox upbringing but who have questioned or left their original community. This survey seeks to develop a deeper understanding of the Jewish identity, beliefs, practices and needs of these individuals, who are a fledgling segment of the larger Jewish community (and sometimes referred to as the "OTD community").

This survey takes about 12-15 minutes to complete and is 100% confidential. While responses to the individual survey questions are optional, we do encourage you to respond fully, in order that your views will be heard.

This survey is being conducted by Nishma Research, an independent research firm headed by Mark Trencher, along with an advisory committee that included Rachel Berger, Prof. Steven M. Cohen, Tsivia Finman, Zalman Newfield and Pesach Sommer. The purpose is to gain a better understanding of the beliefs, practices, needs and motivating factors of those who have transitioned away from the Orthodox community. Funding for this survey was provided entirely by Nishma Research as a service to the Jewish community. For questions or comments, please email: mark@nishmaresearch.com. The overall statistical results will be shared with the public. In appreciation for your participation, you will be given the opportunity at the end of the survey to directly receive this information via email. Thank you!!
